THE INTERNATIONAL GEOPHYSICAL YEAR, 1957-1958

(Organized by the International Council of Scientific Unions)

The National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council, which adheres to the International Council of Scientific Unions on behalf of the United States, is responsible for developing the program of geophysical observations to be carried out by the United States during the International Geophysical Year. To discharge this responsibility, the Chairman of the National Research Council in February 1955 appointed a United States National Committee composed of scientists representing the various fields of geophysics. The program summarized in the preceding pages was prepared by this Committee.

UNITED STATES NATIONAL COMMITTEE INTERNATIONAL GEOPHYSICAL YEAR

JOSEPH KAPLAN, University of California, Chairman

A. H. SHAPLEY, National Bureau of Standards, Vice Chairman

N. C. GERSON, Air Force Cambridge Research Center, Recording Secretary

L. H. ADAMS, Carnegie Institution of Washington

H. G. BOOKER, Cornell University

LYMAN J. BRIGGS, National Geographic Society

G. M. CLEMENCE, U. S. Naval Observatory

C. T. ELVEY, Geophysical Institute, Alaska

JOHN A. FLEMING, American Geophysical Union

LAWRENCE M. GOULD, Carleton College

F. W. REICHELDERFER, U. S. Weather Bureau

E. B. ROBERTS, U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey

PAUL A. SIPLE, Department of the Army

A. F. SPILHAUS, University of Minnesota

MERLE A. TUVE, Carnegie Institution of Washington

A. L. WASHBURN, Dartmouth College

Ex-officio Members

WALLACE W. ATWOOD, Jr., National Academy of Sciences

LLOYD V. BERKNER, Associated Universities, Inc.

WILLIAM W. BURRY, National Research Council

H. K. STEPHENSON, National Science Foundation, Liaison Representative

Administrative Secretary: HUGH ODISHAW

PROGRAM COORDINATION GROUP

H. G. BOOKER, Cornell University, Ionospheric physics

G. M. CLEMENCE, U. S. Naval Observatory, Longitude and latitude

C. T. ELVEY, Geophysical Institute, Alaska, Aurora and airglow

W. O. FIELDS, American Geographical Society, Glaciology

S. A. KORFF, New York University, Cosmic rays

S. B. NICHOLSON, Mount Wilson Observatory, Solar activity

E. B. ROBERTS, U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, Geomagnetism

A. H. SHAPLEY, National Bureau of Standards, World days

E. H. SMITH, Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, Oceanography

J. A. VAN ALLEN, Princeton University, Rocket exploration of the upper atmosphere

HARRY WEXLER, U. S. Weather Bureau, Meteorology

HEADQUARTERS OF USA NATIONAL COMMITTEE

Inquiries and communications relating to the United States program for the International Geophysical Year should be addressed to the Administrative Secretary, USA National Committee, IGY, National Academy of Sciences, 2101 Constitution Avenue, Washington 25, D. C.