SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

William Pierce Rogers was sworn in as Deputy Attorney General on January 28, 1953. Upon the resignation of Attorney General Herbert Brownell in October 1957, President Eisenhower selected Rogers as his new Attorney General. He was sworn in on November 8, 1957. Rogers resigned from his office on January 21, 1961

As Deputy Attorney General, Rogers was second in command of the Department of Justice. His primary responsibilities were overseeing the selection of federal judicial appointments, including judges, marshals, and United States Attorneys. In addition, he served on the President's Award for Distinguished Federal Civilian Service Committee, the Government Contract Committee, and as the Special Presidential Representative to the Independence Ceremonies of Togo, Africa.

As Attorney General, Rogers became the chief legal adviser to the President and the coordinator of all the activities of the Department of Justice. In addition, he represented the United States in legal matters generally and gave advice and opinions to the heads of the executive departments of the Government when so requested. As Attorney General, Rogers appeared in person to represent the Government in the United States Supreme Court in cases of exceptional gravity or importance. Rogers was also very active in the political campaigns of 1952 and 1956, accompanying Richard Nixon as one of his chief political advisers.

The file consists of in-coming and out-going correspondence, memoranda, statistical material, telegrams, printed material, newspaper clippings, government documents, inter-office memoranda, and staff directives dealing with the day-to-day operations of the Department of Justice. In addition, there is attached to the file personal memorabilia which is not open to researchers.

The file covers primarily the period 1953-1961. There is a segment of the file, i.e., WPR: Scrapbook (1938-1953) (1) & (2), which covers Rogers' early career as a lawyer, his role as a member of Thomas E. Dewey's staff in the District Attorney's Office of New York, and some of his duties as the chief counsel to the United States Senate's Permanent Investigation Committee. The file is in four sections: correspondence, subject, personal, and appointments. All but the last section are arranged alphabetically.
