1. Papers that are security classified
2. Papers the use of which may be prejudicial to the maintenance of good relations with foreign nations.
3. Papers containing statements made in confidence unless in the judgment of the Director of the Dwight D. Eisenhower Library the reason for confidentiality no longer exists.
4. Papers relating to family or private business affairs.
5. Papers containing statements about individuals which might be used to injure or harass them or members of their families.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

This collection consists of three preliminary auditing reports and one final report made by Maurice Washburn in 1953 as chairman of the Treasury department Continuing Committee to Verify Transfer of Fiscal Assets. This audit of all fiscal assets of the federal government was conducted incident to the transfer of the government's assets from the Truman to the Eisenhower administration in January 1953.

All of the documents in this collection were generated by the Treasury Department and the Continuing Committee during the conduct of the audit and reflect the scope of the committee's work, its methods, and its findings. There is no personal correspondence.
