SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

Charles B. Hazeltine was born on May 11, 1892 in the state of Washington. In 1913 he joined the U.S. Army and was commissioned a Second Lieutenant. Over the next several years he rose through the ranks and became a colonel in World War II. From 1942 to 1944 he served as chief of the Psychological Warfare Branch of the Allied Forces Headquarters in North Africa. In 1946 he retired from the Army and died at Monterey, California, on September 8, 1965.

The papers of Colonel Hazeltine pertain primarily to the work of the Psychological Warfare Branch. The material includes organizational charts; rosters of personnel; descriptions and explanations of psychological warfare; descriptions of methods and effectiveness of leaflet operations; samples of leaflets in both German and English; and information on the operation of radio stations. Also included are several newspaper clippings in French and English covering the assassination of Admiral Darlan and the North African campaign.

Additional information on psychological warfare operations in North Africa is located in the papers of C.D. Jackson, who was deputy chief of the Psychological Warfare Branch.
